Subject: Purdue's new President and NET Special Report on Bubble Fusion

Steve:

Thought you should know. The university's official newspaper "Purdue Exponent" has taken note of your special report and also the new President (France Cordova, previously Chief Scientist of NASA and Chancellor of the Univ. of California, Riverside).

Unlike the previous President (Martin Jischke) who took virtually no interest in such matters (as best as I know), Cordova appears different.

Regards,

Rusi

Professor,

I heard from both of your guys today. You win the prize for timeliness, thanks for the quick response.

Also, I just downloaded the New Energy Times report from July today, and read through it. I knew most of what was going on, but seeing it all in one place really drives it home.

Wow.

Don't let the bastards get you down.

Best regards,
