I am a [REDACTED] Grad w/a BS Nuclear Engineering. I have a MS Nuclear Engineering from Univ. of [REDACTED] and a MS [REDACTED]. [REDACTED] provided the sharp contrast to Purdue's dysfunctional program.

Nuclear Engineering is a small field and I used to work in the professional ranks of the utility industry. This arm of the field is more suited to Devry Institute graduates, leastways that is what I have been told "The Head" has said. He is a fool.

I firmly believe the dysfunction manifested today in the program is the result of the festering sore the University chose to not stanch during the 80s and 90s.

I believe you would find many graduates concurring with my opinion. Leastways I'm told so when I relate to the money raisers that I will not give a single dime until Lykoudis is 6 feet in the ground. They say they hear a lot of that from PU NE graduates.

Keep up the good work,
